FINE AND TERM IN JAIL
FOR DAVID DUNLOP, JR.

Petersburg Motorist Notes Appeal When Convicted in County for Violating Speed Law.

David Dunlop, Jr., of Petersburg, was yesterday fined $100 and costs and sentenced to jail for fifteen days by Magistrate T. J. Puryear, of Henrico County, for speeding an automobile on the Cary Street Road, between Richmond and the Country Club of Virginia. Dunlop noted an appeal to the Circuit Court, and was released on a $200 bond, given by James Dunlop, of this city. The alleged speeder was arrested at the club on Monday afternoon by Police Officer W. H. Lawrence, who acted on the complaint of Dr. George Ben Johnston. Dunlop had passed Dr. Johnston just before reaching the club. According to the testimony of the physician, he was running at the rate of more than fifty miles an hour. Dunlop admitted on the stand yesterday that his machine, which is of the racer type, was traveling something like forty-five miles an hour when he was seized by the physician. Berkeley Williams, of this city, testified that he heard Dunlop's companion say at the club that the automobile was making between fifty and seventy-five miles an hour. Dunlop had no counsel at the trial. Commonwealth's Attorney W. W. Beverly appeared for the State.

MUST PAY TWO TAXES

Judge Holt, of Lexington, Holds That Auto Dealers Must Also Take Merchant's License.

Christopher B. Garnett, executive assistant to the Tax Board, announced yesterday a decision by Judge Holt, in Lexington, to the effect that dealers in automobiles must not only procure a dealer's license to sell automobiles, but must also take out a merchant's license. J. Edward Heck, of Lexington, a dealer in automobiles, refused to pay the merchant's tax. This tax is a graduated one, and is based upon the amount of merchandise purchased by the dealer. The automobile license tax is a flat tax of $50 per annum. The ruling was that the dealer's license only gives the holder the right to use the roads and streets of the commonwealth. It does not relieve him, Judge Holt held, from reporting his automobile purchase as a basis for determining his tax as a dealer.

PAVILION BADLY NEEDED
FOR COLORED PATIENTS

Campaign to Raise Funds for Memorial Hospital Includes This Addition.

In its campaign for funds with which to enlarge its facilities and its provisions for the public, Memorial Hospital is stressing the need for the establishment of a negro pavilion and ward for patients suffering with contagious diseases. When the negro pavilion and ward for contagious patients are completed, Memorial Hospital will have a bed capacity for 1200, 350 and 400 patients. The addition of the negro pavilion will be regarded as a great step towards enabling Richmond to handle a class of patients now inadequately cared for.

Memorial Hospital is owned and operated by the Medical College of Virginia. Since its founding as a memorial to a daughter of the late John L. Williams, its facilities have been steadily improved, and it has done a valuable work for the community. It is now the desire of its board of managers to increase the hospital in size and facility so that it may give adequate care to those suffering with contagious diseases, and in order that the provisions for the care of the colored may be made more ample. As the hospital is now, only forty-two negro patients may be cared for at one time. Richmond is looked upon as the medical center of the south, and the board of managers of Memorial Hospital of Richmond, where people of moderate means may be treated for various ailments.

DRUNKEN DRIVER FINED

W. C. Lawson Pays $25 for Operating
Automobile While Drunk—Others Convicted.

W. C. Lawson was fined $25 and costs in Police Court yesterday when convicted of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. He was arrested by Police Officer Kersey after a collision near First and Broad Streets. E. W. Fuller and C. E. Whitlow, the men arrested by Sergeant Bradley and Police Officer Samuels several days ago on charges of moving their machines up Hanover Avenue, were fined $25 and costs each. A like fine was imposed on H. H. Lewis, who was arrested for speeding by Police Officer L. N. Clarke, and on Harvey Meade, whom Sergeant Bradley and Police Officer Samuels arrested on the same charge. Meade noted an appeal.

Funds for Firemen's Pensions.

Reuben L. S. Jones, of the Firemen's Mutual Aid Association, has received a contribution of $50 from Noble Brothers, Inc., $25 from the Albemarle Paper Manufacturing Company, and $25 from the M. D. Stone Motor Company. All of the money received goes to the pension fund for firemen. Other contributions have been received from the Planners' National Bank, the Westmoreland Club, Frank Miller and the Model Steam Laundry.

Old Suit Is Dropped.

The suit of C. T. Stitt against the Kirk-Shelby Vinegar Company for $150, brought in the City Circuit Court, was under the new law the docket yesterday. It had been on the docket since it was instituted five years ago, but no action had been taken by the plaintiff, and the case was dropped automatically.

HIGH TRIBUTE IS PAID

JEWISH CONFEDERATES

Fiftieth Annual Memorial Day Exercises
Are Conducted at Hebrew Cemetery.

DR. RUDOLPH COFFEE ORATOR

"Better to Live Than Die for Country"
Is Speaker's Ideal of Twentieth Century Citizenship—Fire
Salute Over Graves.

Dr. Rudolph Coffee, of Chicago, was the orator yesterday afternoon at the fiftieth annual memorial exercises in honor of the Jewish Confederate dead, held under the auspices of the Hebrew Ladies' Memorial Association at the Hebrew Cemetery.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. E. N. Callach, who presided during the exercises. In his opening remarks he referred to a recent visit to Nashville, when he saw a statue of Sam Davis, the Confederate spy, who was executed. He said that when he saw it he was thrilled and took off his hat.

"I felt that the ground upon which I stood was holy," he said. "What could be higher in this life than the action of that man. He went to death rather than open his lips to betray a fellow-man."

BETTER TO LIVE FOR THAN DIE FOR COUNTRY
"And now, standing here and looking at this sacred spot after having been to those other places, I feel myself to be a better Jew and a better American. I object to being a citizen of this country in this case I feel that those blessed dead, lying there in the soldiers' section, are worthy to be separated from us."

"My friends, there is a new ideal of citizenship. In other ages the mark of citizenship was that a man died for his country. The twentieth century standard of citizenship is that a man live for his country. It is better to live than to die for one's country. It is better that men fight together rather than against one another. The twentieth century wants to know why a man should die at all."

"I will have a new inspiration when I get back to Chicago, and I will never be satisfied until I bring my own two children from San Francisco to the Southland to see what it means to be a patriot."

Dr. Coffee spoke of the sacrifices of the Jews in the War Between the States, saying that all Jews are loyal citizens of the country of their native land. He pointed to the graves of the Jewish soldiers as mute testimony of his remarks. He spoke of the time when all swords should be sheathed, and all guns stacked, and he did not picket fence about the soldiers' plot before him to illustrate his remarks. The design of the fence is reversed swords and stacked arms.

SET EXAMPLE FOR NATION TO FOLLOW

Speaking to the Confederate veterans present, Dr. Coffee expressed the hope that they might remain for many more years. He said that the South and the nation at large had need of their example and their presence.

"You represent to us the trust and highest expression of sacrifice the world knows of," he said. "The city, the State and the nation are better because you are among us."

At the conclusion of the address, Dr. Callach pronounced the Jewish prayer for the dead. "America" was sung by the audience, after which a provisional company, composed of those members of the Grays' Battalion who did not go to Birmingham, fired the regulation military salute of three volleys over the graves. The sounding of taps on the bugle brought the exercises to a close.

During the ceremonies a number of musical selections were rendered by a quartet from Beth Abrahah Temple. A singing of the Bar, by Joseph Whittemore, was a feature of the musical program. The Scripture reading, by Dr. Callach, was from the Nineteenth Psalm and the Fourth Chapter of Micah. The entire audience was present. All Confederate organizations who did not go were represented. The Junior Memorial Association sent carriages to the Soldiers' Home and many of the Confederate veterans from that institution were present.

STRODE MAY ENTER RACE

AGAINST HAL D. FLOOD

More Than Fair Opportunity for Contest for Congressional Nomination in Tenth District.

STATEMENT BY STATE SENATOR

Indicates That if Next Two Weeks
Strengthened Belief There Is Desire for Him to Succeed Incumbent He Will Go Into Fight.

Conditions in the Tenth District, for the first time in fifteen years, offer a reasonably fair opportunity for contesting the congressional nomination, according to State Senator Aubrey E. Strode, of Amherst, who made public yesterday a statement in which he indicates, provided the next two weeks shall strengthen his present belief, that there is an earnest desire that he run, that he will enter the lists against Hal D. Flood, the incumbent.

It has been known for some time that Mr. Strode has congressional aspirations. In a statement to The Times-Dispatch three weeks ago he admitted that he had under serious consideration the advice of influential Democrats in his district urging him to announce his candidacy.

BY ORGANIZATION
In organization circles the suggestion that Representative Flood may have opposition this year was not until recently taken seriously. Mr. Flood was regarded as too strongly entrenched to be dislodged by any man in his district. This is still the feeling among organization men, although recent developments, in which the James-Glass episode has its part, have strengthened the anti-organization forces in the belief that a decided reaction against so-called "Machine" methods may be expected, which will strengthen the hand of all candidates of the opposite faction.

While Mr. Flood is allied with the organizations, he was one of the congressional leaders who volunteered the support to Representative Glass for the national committee. As late as the meeting of the State Democratic Committee here last March, Mr. Flood, in a statement to The Times-Dispatch, admitted his own opposition to the Southland to see what it means to be a patriot."

DAY OF SNAP CONVENTION IS OVER, SAYS STRODE

Discussing his probable candidacy and political conditions, in the Tenth District generally, Mr. Strode said in part: "After the first time in the fifteen years since the primary plan of nomination was adopted a reasonably fair opportunity seems to be presented for contesting a Democratic congressional nomination in this district. Until now the election machinery has been so complicated, the cost of entering the selection of the primary judges and other details were all in the hands of committees, who too often appeared more intent on giving advice than on determining the party opportunity for free and full choice."

"The day of the snap convention, whereby primary and prohibitive entrance charge, all engineered by a party committee, is happily past under our legalized primary law now effective for the first time in a congressional election. While the primary election judges must be chosen by the electoral boards who will appoint the regular Democratic election judges or come under the suspicion of juggling the election machinery in a favoritist way, that would be resented by the voters of the candidate sought to be thus unfairly assisted."

CONDITIONS IN DISTRICT ARE NOT HEALTHY
"If I shall offer it will not be to make a factional appeal. I shall not abate my protest against the party conduct that threatens its supremacy. As one who has been always loyal to the party and its nominees, I feel that I can justly ask from all Democrats a hearing, and fair consideration of any claims that I may have to present."

"I believe the Democratic party has within itself the remedy for any disorderly conduct that may develop. That party conditions in the Tenth District are not healthy is testified by the Democratic defeats or near defeats by independent or Republican candidates last fall in the elections of Augusta, Botetourt, Rockbridge, Appomattox, Cumberland and elsewhere. The apparent protest against some of our leaders is a warning."

ANXIETY TO RENDER
SERVICE TO STATE

"I fully realize the daring, approaching the bounds of reckless temerity in the sight of some, that I may display if he may be the incumbent, entrenched as he is, and the backing of patronage and the backing of great wealth, yet if I offer I shall venture to present my cause to the mass of the voters of the district. They will give a fair hearing to both sides. In the hand of the average voter of the party is the power to override all obstacles to the expression of his will."

"If within the next two weeks I shall be brought further to see, as it now appears that there is earnest desire widespread in the district to test out the sentiment and incidentally to give the voters of the district the chance to end an era of political stagnation of good Democrats, raising the standard of progressive Democracy and equal rights among Democrats, I shall make the fight win or lose in the faith and hope that I may thus render some service to Virginia and her traditions of popular government."

A Richmond Inspiration

The past history of Memorial Hospital has been an inspiration. Imperative necessity demands that its future be an expansion. Now is the opportune time for the greatest forward movement Richmond ever has undertaken. The sum of $250,000 will solve the problem.

It will erect a six-story fire-proof, thoroughly up-to-date negro hospital.

It will provide a hospital for contagious diseases, the greatest medical need of the city.

It will furnish a home for the nurses where social and recreational influences will relieve the intensity of professional work.

It will guarantee an endowment that will properly care for these improvements.

PROGRESS OF NEGRO RACE
IS SHOWN IN EXHIBIT

Work Done by Colored Pupils in Henrico County Schools Forms Interesting Display.

The progress of the negro race in Henrico County is strikingly manifested in the industrial exhibit, the work of the colored pupils in the twenty-one colored schools in the county, which is now open to the public at Laurel and Broad Streets, under the Richmond and Chesapeake Bay Railway Station. Virginia Industrial School, a school-teacher, introduced industrial work in the Henrico colored schools several years ago. Exercises incident to the event were held yesterday afternoon in the Moore Street Baptist church, colored. J. D. Harris, superintendent of schools in the county, presided and introduced the speakers. Addresses were made by Rev. Francis H. McFadden, D. D.; Dr. R. W. Miller and Dr. W. E. Broadbent. The colored schoolchildren of the county, under the leadership of Virginia Randolph, attended in a body. Classes in cooking, sewing, embroidery, millinery, canning, picture framing, woodwork, shoework, basketry, broom-making and mattress-making have their work on exhibit.

CITY AND FORBES AGREE

Negotiations to Dedicate Right-of-Way for West End Sewer Come to Successful End.

The Finance Committee has agreed to the proposition of W. S. Forbes to dedicate a right-of-way for a sewer in B Street, which parallels the Belt Line tracks on the east side. Negotiations with Mr. Forbes were conducted by a subcommittee consisting of Chairman Grundy, Suburban Station and Alderman Gilman.

The committee already had agreed with Mr. Forbes to pay him $45,000 for property needed to extend Monument Avenue across the Belt Line tracks and land necessary for the widening of Rosemeath Road, and to return to him a bond of $10,000 which he had placed with the city in guarantee that the Richmond and Henrico Railway Company would perform certain exactions.

Prohibitionists to Name Delegates

State Party Will Select Representatives to Attend National Convention at St. Paul

Wearers of the white ribbon and those who have sworn destruction to the liquor traffic in the nation will meet in State convention in Smithfield Hall on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock for the purpose of electing delegates and alternates to the National Prohibition Convention, which will open in St. Paul, Minn., on July 19.

The call for the meeting went out yesterday over the signature of E. R. McIntire, chairman of the State committee of the Prohibition party. He urges a large attendance. Eight delegates and as many alternates to the national body will be named by the local national prohibitionists.

An invitation to attend the convention is extended to all who believe that a national administration committee to the destruction of the liquor traffic is the logical method of dealing with the subject, and who pledge their votes to that end. Past party affiliations will not be held against participation. Women who belong to temperance organizations will be admitted as delegates with full power.

National Chairman Hinshaw has accepted an invitation to be at the convention and make an address. There will be also a representative of the Women's Prohibition Federation of America and other prominent prohibitionists.

Take Evidence To-Day as to Site
Selected for Proposed Park for Colored People.

Condemnation commissioners appointed to examine the proposed site for a park for colored people in Jackson Ward will meet in the office of the City Attorney this afternoon to hear evidence from property owners in the vicinity. The commissioners are W. H. Zimmerman, O. Herbert Funston, P. J. White, Newton E. Ananrow and W. E. Redd.

The site selected by the commissioners for the proposed park is north of Boyd Street and west of Harrison, extending two blocks to the Sitterling-Carnell-Davis property. It is said not to have met with the approval of the Jackson Ward people, who are crying for relief from crowded conditions and demanding more schools and better streets.

The Chamber of Commerce is now investigating conditions in Jackson Ward, and negro citizens ask the commissioners for a hearing so that they may present suggestions offered by the Chamber of Commerce for the relief of Jackson Ward, and make clear their own bias as to the needs of the colored people.
